Results of the Flood.

The waters are slowly getting back into the old channel but the road from the wagon bridge to the River Side School is a quagmire and fourteen teams which attempted to reach the bridge from the north are stuck and can not hope to pull out, for any team that would attempt to reach them would be caught in the same trap.

Over fifty teams are over by the River Side School now waiting to reach the city. Col. Randlett informed us that the approaches to the wagon bridge could be repaired in a day. The condition of the road north of the bridge seriously cripples trade, for some of our merchants best customers come from north of the river.

The road bed of the Rock Island gave way east of this city again yesterday, causing a delay of several hours in the trains but the water at that point will be in banks again in a couple of days. The railroad company have a force of several hundred men working night and day repairing the damage to the road between Chickasha and Fort Cobb, but we can hardly expect trains to be running to Cobb for at least a week. A great many west bound passengers came in on the freight last night and this morning took buggies and wagons on west.
